TRUE BILLS AGAINST WELL-KNOWN MEN.

Returned by the Montgomery County Grand Jury.

St. Sterling, Ky., April 19.—A sensation was created here when the Montgomery county grand jury returned true bills against five county officials, one city official and two other men of prominence. Indictments were found against Magistrates J. W. Henry, C. L. Dean, Newt. Perry and J. H. Shultz for alleged malfeasance in that they attempted to pay W. W. Eubank, road supervisor, who had been removed, his salary, and for other offenses. Eubank was also indicted for alleged usurpation of office for acting after he had been removed, and City Jailor Langston was indicted on the charge of willfully neglecting his duties and allowing a prisoner to escape. Magistrate Henry is also under indictment for alleged subornation of perjury.

The original DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve never fails to give satisfaction for burns, sores, boils, tetter cracked hands, etc. For blind, bleeding, itching and protruding Piles it affords almost immediate relief. It stops the pain. Sold by Lang Bros.

THE SPENDERS

A TALE OF THE THIRD GENERATION

By HARRY LEON WILSON

Copyright by Lothrop Publishing Company.

"Well, I'm mighty glad you thought up this stock deal. I'll give you good business habits and experience, say nothing of doubling your capital."

"And I've gone in with Burman on his corn deal. He's begun to buy, and he has it cinched this time. He'll be the corn king all right by June 1; don't make any mistake on that. I thought as long as we were plunging so heavy in Western Trolley and Union Cordage, along with the copper, we might as well take the side line of corn. Then we won't have our eggs all in one basket."

"All right, son, all right! I'm trusting you. A corner in corn is better than a corner in wild oats any day; anything to keep you straight, and doing something. I don't care how many millions you pile up! I hear the Federal Oil people's back of the copper deal."

"That's right; the oil crowd and Shepler. I had it straight from Relpin that night. They're negotiating now with the Rothschilds to limit the output of the Rio Tinto mines. They'll end by controlling them, and then, well, we'll have a roll of the yellow boys—say, we'll have to lay quiet for a year just to count it."

"Do it good while you're doing it," urged Uncle Peter, cheerfully. "I rely so much on your judgment, I want you to get action on my stuff, too. I got a couple millions that ought to be working harder than they are."

"Good; I didn't think you had so much gambler in you."

"It's for a worthy purpose, son. And it seems too bad that Pishy can't pull out something with her bit, when it's to be had so easy. From what that spangle-faced beast of hers tells me there's got to be some expensive plumbing done in that castle he gets sawed off on to him."

"We'll let sis in, too," exclaimed her brother, generously, "and ma could use a little more in her business. She's sitting up nights to corner all the Amalgamated Hard-luck on the island. We'll pool issue, and say, we'll make those Federal Oil pickers think we've gnawed a corner off the sub-treasury. I'll put an order in for 20,000 more shares to-morrow—among the three stocks. And then we'll have to see about getting all our capital here. We'll need every cent of it that's loose; and maybe we'd better sell off some of those dead-wood stocks."

The 20,000 shares were bought by the following week, 5,000 of them being Consolidated Copper, 10,000 Western Trolley and 5,000 Union Cordage. Consolidated Copper fell off two points upon rumors, traceable to no source, that the company had on hand a large secret supply of copper, and was producing largely in excess of the demand every month.

Percival told Uncle Peter of these rumors, and chuckled with the easy confidence of a man who knows secrets.

"You see, it's coming the way Relpin said. The insiders are hammering down the stock with those reports, hammering with one hand, and buying up small lots quietly with the other. But you'll notice the price of copper doesn't go down any. They keep it at 17 cents all right. Now, the moment they get control of the European supply they'll hold the stuff, force up the selling price to awful figures, and squeeze out dividends that will make you wear blue glasses to look at them."

"You certainly do know your business, son," said Uncle Peter, fervently. "You certainly got your pa's head on you. You remind me more and more of Dan'l J. Bines every day. I'd rather trust your judgment now than lots of older men down there. You know their tricks all right. Get in good and hard so long as you got a sure thing. I'd hate to have you come meachin' around after that stock has kited, and be kickin' because you hadn't bet what your hand was worth."

"Trust me for that, Uncle Peter. Garner tried to steer me off this line of stocks the other night. He'd heard these rumors about a slump, and he's 50 years old at that. I thanked him for his tip and coppered it with another 1,000 shares all around next day. The way Garner can tell when you're playing a busted flush makes you nervous; but I haven't looked over his license to know everything down in the street yet."

The moral gain to Percival from his new devotion to the stock market was commented upon approvingly both by Uncle Peter and by his mother. It was quite as tangible as his money profits promised to be. He ceased to frequent the temple of "chance" in Forty-fourth street, to the proprietor's genuine regret. The poker games at the hotel he abandoned as being trivial. And the cabmen along upper Broadway had seldom more the opportunity to compete for his early morning patronage. He began to keep early hours and to do less casual drinking during the day. After three weeks of this comparatively regular living his mother rejoiced to note signs that his breakfast appetite was returning.

"You see," he explained earnestly to Uncle Peter, "a man to make anything at this game must keep his head clear, and he must have good health to do that. I meet a lot of those fellows down there that queer themselves by drink. It doesn't do so much hurt when a man isn't needing his brains—but no more of it for me just now!"

"That's right, son. I knew I could make something more than a poltchosh out of you. I knew you'd pull up if you got into business like you been doin'."

"Come downtown with me this afternoon and see me make a play, Uncle Peter. I think I'll begin now to buy on a margin. The rise can't hold off much longer."

"I'd like to, son, but I'd laid out to take a walk up to the park this afternoon and look in at the monkeys awhile. I need the outdoors, and anyway you don't need me down there. You know your part all right. My! but I'd begin to feel nervous with all that money up, if it was anybody but you, now."

In pursuance of his pronounced plan, Uncle Peter walked up Fifth avenue that afternoon. But he stopped short of the park. At the imposing entrance of the Arlington he turned in. At the desk he asked for Mrs. Wybert.

"I'll see if Mrs. Wybert is in," said the clerk, handing him a blank card; "your name, please."

The old man wrote: "Mr. Peter Bines, of Montana City, would like a few minutes' talk with Mrs. Wybert."

The boy was gone so long that Uncle Peter, waiting, began to suspect he would not be received. He returned at length with the message: "The lady says will you please step upstairs."

Going up in the elevator, the old man was ushered by a maid into a violet-scented little nest whose pale green walls were touched discreetly with hangings of heliotrope. An artist, in Uncle Peter's place, might have fancied that the color scheme of the apartment cried out for a bit of warmth. A glowing, warm-haired woman was needed to set the walls afire; and the need was met when Mrs. Wybert entered.

She wore a long coat of seal trimmed with chinchilla, and had been, apparently, about to go out. Uncle Peter rose and bowed. Mrs. Wybert nodded rather uncertainly.

"You wished to see me, Mr. Bines?"

"I did want to have a little talk with you, Mrs. Wybert, but you're going out, and I won't keep you. I know how pressed you New York society ladies are with your engagements."

"Mrs. Wybert had seemed to be puzzled. She was still puzzled, but unmistakably pleased. The old man was looking at her with frank and friendly apology for his intrusion. Plainly she had nothing to fear from him. She became gracious.

"It was only a little shopping tour, Mr. Bines, that and a call at the hospital, where they have one of my maids who slipped on the avenue yesterday and fractured one of her—er—limbs. Do sit down."

Mrs. Wybert said "limb" for leg with the rather conscious air of escaping from an awkward situation only by the subtlest finesse.

She seated herself before a green and heliotrope background that instantly took warmth from her color. Uncle Peter still hesitated.

"You see, I wanted kind of a long chat with you, Mrs. Wybert—a friendly chat if you didn't mind, and I'd feel a little nervous if you're bundled up that way."

A Dandy for Burns.

Dr. Bergin Pana, Ill., writes: "I have used Ballard's Snow Liniment; always recommend it to my friends, as I am confident there is no better made. 'It is a dandy for burns.' Those who live on farms are especially liable to many accidental cuts, burns, bruises, which heal rapidly when Ballard's Snow Liniment is applied. It should always be kept in the house for cases of emergency." 25c, 50c and $1.00. Sold by Alvey & List.

BAD BLOOD

"I had trouble with my bowels which made my blood impure. My face was covered with pimples which no external remedy could remove. I tried your Cascarets and great was my joy when the pimples disappeared after a month's steady use. I have recommended them to all my friends and quite a few have found relief."

NEW ODD FELLOWS' LODGE.

Mechanicsburg No. 218 Instituted Last Night—Officers Chosen.

Mechanicsburg Lodge No. 218, I. O. O. F., with 46 members, was instituted at the Fraternity building last night by L. Boyd Harris, of Morgantown, Ky., special deputy grand master. All officers have been elected and the lodge is now a part of the local fraternity of Odd Fellows, swelling the total membership of the order to over 550 members.

There were over 200 members of the order present at the installation, and it was one of the most interesting lodge events ever held in Paducah. Following the ceremonies a banquet was served by the new lodge complimentary to the members of Ingleside and Mangum lodges.

The following are the officers elected and appointed: W. T. Goodman, noble grand; C. F. Yates, vice grand; Dr. Jesse C. Gilbert, secretary, and Chris Kolb, treasurer. The noble grand named his appointive officers as follows: Henry Magee, right support to noble grand; C. N. Smith, left support to noble grand; D. Q. Barker, warden; C. M. Clark, conductor; Silas Peak, inside guardian; H. L. Harrison, chaplain; Mode Price, right scene support; T. N. Edwards, left scene support; R. S. Barnett, right support to vice grand; A. Butler, left support to vice grand.

LADY RESIDENT OF MARSHALL.

Dies After Lingering Illness From a Complication of Diseases.

Mrs. Catherine Freeman, age 69, died at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. E. W. Downing, ten miles south of Paducah on the Benton road, yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

The deceased had been an invalid for several years, and had been in a serious condition, the result of complications, for some time. She was born in Marshall county and had resided in that county all her life. She leaves several children. They are: Mrs. Beatrice Field, Benton; Dr. A. H. Freeman, Starks, Fla.; Mr. E. B. Freeman, Jacksonville, Fla.; and L. L. Freeman, of the city.

The deceased was a member of the Baptist church, and the funeral will be held at Calvert City today.

HEALTH IS YOUTH.

Disease and Sickness Bring Old Age. Herbine, taken every morning before breakfast, will keep you in robust health fit you to ward off disease. It cures constipation, biliousness, dyspepsia, fever skin, liver and kidney complaints. It purifies the blood and clears the complexion.

Mrs. D. W. Smith, Whitney, Tex., writes April 3, 1902: "I have used Herbine and find it the best medicine for constipation and liver troubles. It does all you claim for it. I can highly recommend it. 50c. Sold by Alvey & List."

BRIDGE IN BAD SHAPE.

The Cross Creek Crossing on Caldwell Street is Weakening.

The last bridge on Caldwell avenue, just before the I. C. Union depot is reached, is in bad shape. A slow but sure sliding has begun, due to the recent high water soaking into the fill, and the bridge is in a dangerous condition. This is the same structure the city engineer has been trying to have the city replace with a concrete culvert. The culvert has been ordered but no work done yet.

The water has subsided sufficiently to enable the preliminary work to be started and Paducah Traction company officials were out yesterday afternoon looking after the matter. Work will be pushed so that the weakened bridge be done away with before an accident is caused.

Clean up and get ready for spring. Take a few Early Risers. These famous little pills cleanse the liver, stomach and bowels and give the blood a chance to purify itself. They relieve headache, sallow complexion, etc. Sold by Lang Bros.

Will Refuse to Sign Licenses.

Henderson, Ky., April 19.—Mayor Harrison has announced to the city council that he would refuse to sign the license of proprietors of disreputable saloons, even though the council grants them. A called meeting was held at which the police will be called upon to testify as to the reputation of each of the saloons of the city. It is thought this will force many low dives out of the business.

Don't tie a cough or a cold up in your system by taking a remedy that binds the bowels. Take Kennedy's Laxative Honey and Tar. It is better. It opens the bowels. An ideal remedy for young and old. Children like it. Sold by Lang Bros.

Drank Horse Medicine.

Mattoon, Ill., April 18.—Ford Brandeburg, a wealthy farmer, living southwest of this city, committed suicide here by drinking horse medicine. The cause is not known.

STREET SWEEP FOR A BLOCK.

Was a Demonstration Which Was an Example of Work.

A street sweeping demonstration not authorized by the city and witnessed by a choice few, was made this morning between the hours of 4 and 5 o'clock, on North Fifth street between Monroe and Madison streets.

A small boy and aged woman were the principals in the demonstration, and they did a good job. The boy had lost a dollar and the street was swept from one street to the other, a distance of a square. A broom with half the handle sawed off was used and the thick dust was beaten aside from gutter to gutter.

The boy was driving with his mother, who had come to town with produce, and dropped the dollar from the vehicle. He was unsuccessful in his search, but the sweeping demonstration "skinned the city street department a country block."
